A confidential, freephone helpline for men experiencing domestic violence.

The Men's Advice Line is a confidential helpline for male victims of domestic violence (in heterosexual or same-sex relationships). Our focus is to increase the safety and minimise the risk to men experiencing domestic violence.

We do this by:

- Giving men a chance to talk about their experiences
- Providing emotional support
- Providing practical advice
- Focussing on safety-planning and reducing risk
- Signposting to a range of services, including housing and legal options
- Exploring solutions that are focussed on the needs of the callers
- Using a non-judgmental approach
- Offering a confidential service

The Men's Advice Line also provides resources and training to professionals from both the statutory and voluntary sector. Our work with professionals includes:

- Providing advice on work with male victims
- Providing information on services for male victims
- A Toolkit on work with male victims of domestic violence
- Training courses for anyone interested in working with male victims

*If English is not your first language, call us and ask for an interpreter
